Michael Auslin, PhD

A longtime contributor to The Wall Street Journal and author of The End of the Asian Century (Yale), Dr. Michael “Misha” Auslin is one of the leading geopolitical risk analysts in America—as well as a top-ranked speaker for groups such as the Young Presidents Organization.

Misha was a professor of history at Yale University before moving to one of the world's most influential think tanks, The American Enterprise Institute, in Washington, D.C. The World Economic Forum named him a “Young Global Leader,” and he is a former Fulbright Scholar and Marshall Memorial Fellow, among other awards. He is the award-winning author of three previous books and hundreds of essays and articles.

Misha appears on Fox News, BBC, PBS and other news networks, and his writing has been in The New York Times, Foreign Affairs, Politico, Forbes, National Review, and other leading publications. Misha also has advised the U.S. government and military, and private business on political and security matters. He travels through Europe and Asia regularly, talking with leaders of government, business, media, and civil society. He also serves as the vice chair of the Wilton Park USA Foundation.
